

Indiana citizens have made their own decision by signing the states no call list. The Member of the Bankers Association are working against Indiana's privacy law. If your agency approves their attempts to impose the federal established business relationship exemption on us, you are failing to defend the very people who you are supposed to protect. I am strongly against the CBA trying to pressure your agency in supporting what is an underhanded process to annoy citizens everywhere. My bank knows my number and if they need to send me something they can, but I do not have a home phone, just my cell phone and they have no right to use my minutes on their tawdry sales and marketing plans. Do not let us down. Please hold firm against this attach.
